UAE issues long-term visas for 100 cos

The Dubai government has announced granting long-term visa for the start-ups that are participating in the fourth industrial revolution. The 100 Arab start-ups were selected at the World Economic Forum on 26 April in Davos, Africa, held in Jordan between April 6 and 7. The forum witnessed for the first time bringing together the 105 emerging companies from the Arab region, which are working towards the development of the Fourth Industrial Revolution.

The announcement of the five-year visas was made during a meeting at the Secretariat General of the UAE, attended by the Prime Minister of the UAE, Sheikh Mohamed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, and CEO of Dubai Future Foundation Khalifa Juma Almehairi in a key session titled "Arab Start-ups: Vision 2030." The UAE is a global incubator for emerging innovations. Its innovation-friendly legislative structure is essential for such companies to succeed.

"This initiative reaffirms the UAE’s commitment to build global partnerships between the government and the private sector to promote future technologies and the fourth industrial revolution. It is designed to attract Arabic and global talents as well as maximize the government’s return, due to the use of advanced technology. The lab aims to create a reliable and transparent legislative environment, introduce new or develop existing legislation, regulate advanced technology products and applications and introduce a technology grading system by providing a secure legislative environment and encouraging investment in future technologies," he concluded.

The Ministry of Finance issued the following statement: "As the UAE’s private sector continues to grow, the government is determined to create a favorable and competitive environment for investment.

The Ministry of Finance is the primary government body responsible for the economic development of the UAE. It is responsible for developing and implementing economic policies and strategies, and promoting the growth of the non-oil private sector.

The Ministry of Finance is also responsible for regulating and supervising the financial sector, which includes banking, insurance, and investment.

The Ministry of Finance plays a crucial role in promoting economic growth and development by providing financial and tax incentives to businesses, attracting foreign investment, and creating a conducive environment for business operations.

Saudis launch "Gold Card" to woo global talent

RIYADH: The Ministry of Labour and Social Development has launched the Gold Card programme, which aims to attract the country's best talent to work in the Kingdom.

The ministry invited consultants and analysts to conduct an analysis of what incentives should be provided to attract foreign talent to Saudi Arabia, before implementing the programme.

The initial phase of the project will run over 12 months, from the pilot to the full roll-out of the Gold Card. The programme will help the ministry to identify the main characteristics of the Saudi labour market and how to attract them, as well as to develop suitable incentives for candidates. The Extended Residency Visa programme is part of the Quality of Life Programme -2020, which was launched last year by the Council of Economic and Development Affairs.

As well as attracting international talent to the Kingdom, the programme of incentives is to promote expats' enfranchisement in Saudi culture, and to increase the acceptance of other cultures among Saudi citizens.

The Quality of Life Programme -2020 includes a number of other initiatives, including the reform of the Kingdom's immigration system, the development of a skilled Saudi workforce: a national plan for human development, the preparation of "future work" through the establishment of training, participation in the "fourth industrial revolution," education, and a focus on pre-school education. The programme also includes the development of talent through innovative programmes and private and public investment.

Apple cuts iPhone XR prices in India: Sources

NEW DELHI:* Apple has reduced the price of its iPhone XR in India by up to Rs 9,000, sources said, as the company seeks to boost sales in the world's second-largest smartphone market following a similar move in China.

The price of the 64 GB iPhone XR has been reduced by at least Rs 17,900 due to a price cut and a credit card cashback offer, the people said, adding the price cut has been reflected on the Apple website.

"The price reduction on the iPhone XR is a move by Apple to compete with other smartphone makers in the country," one of the sources told Reuters.

Apple did not respond to a request for comment. The price reduction comes after iPhone prices were lowered in China this week, and a portion of the price cut in India will be passed on to consumers, the people said, adding Apple will also give a Rs 1,000 credit to customers on any smartphone purchase during the 6.1 sales season, pending on their demand.

"The focus of this entire exercise is to win customers who would have thought of going to Samsung or OnePlus, to spend some extra money on an iPhone XR - it's more bang for the buck," said Rushabh Doshi of tech research firm Canalys. Samsung's latest Galaxy S10 starts at Rs 37,999.

"The 6.1 sales season is the world's largest smartphone market partly due to a slowing economy. In India, Apple's iPhone sales are up against the more competitive pricing of rival handset manufacturers from South Korea's Samsung Electronics Co Ltd and China's OnePlus. The focus of this entire exercise is to win customers who would have thought of going to Samsung or OnePlus," Doshi added.

"The company will also give a Rs 1,000 credit to customers on any smartphone purchase during the 6.1 sales season, pending on their demand. The price cut and cashback offer are likely to boost sales in the country," the people said.

First Gujaraj woman in Jamnrc civil services exam

When Dr Rehana Sadiq, 36, an eye clinic doctor from Jamnrc, decided to appear for the civil services exam last year, she had no therapeutic justification for the decision.

She says, "even if you feel healthy," you should get some basic tests done to assess the risk of any health problems, including heart problems, which is why it is important to keep a check on your health regularly.

According to a recent study published in The Lancet, a global medical journal, around 1 billion people worldwide have diabetes.

But if you have a history of diabetes or other health conditions, including obesity, high blood pressure, or high cholesterol, you may be at a higher risk of developing diabetes.

Dr Rehana Sadiq, who qualified for the Indian Revenue Service exam in 2019, explained that the reason for this was the increasing prevalence of lifestyle-related diseases such as diabetes, obesity, and neurological conditions.

"As a doctor, I can say that the lifestyle-related diseases are on the rise,"

she said.

"People are increasingly sedentary and are consuming unhealthy diets, which are leading to an increase in the prevalence of these diseases.

What is particularly concerning is that the impact of these diseases is not limited to just the individual, but also affects their family and community, as well as the wider society.

"In addition, the healthcare system is struggling to keep up with the increasing demand for treatment and management of these diseases," she added.

Dr Sadiq also emphasized the importance of preventive measures, such as regular health check-ups and lifestyle modifications, in order to reduce the risk of developing these diseases.

"Prevention is better than cure, and it is crucial to start addressing these issues at a young age,"

she said.

"By promoting healthy habits and making informed choices, we can reduce the burden of these diseases on the healthcare system and improve the quality of life for our population."

L&I Reaffirms Edelweiss Financial NCDs rating

L&I has reaffirmed the outlook on the non-convertible debentures (NCDs) aggregating Rs 467.29 cr by Edelweiss Financial Services Limited (EFSL) to negative, from stable. The credit rating agency has reaffirmed the AA (ratings applicable to both BSE &NSE) ICRA, in a statement, while saying that the long-term ratings has been kept on account of the heightened perception risk faced by the wholesale lending business, which could impact the asset quality.

“The outlook may be revised to stable on the wholesale book sub-sidies and the Group is able to improve profitability in the medium term,” the ratings may be downgraded in case of a significant deterioration in the asset quality, a prolonged slowdown in the real estate industry coupled with liquidity crunch in the real estate industry or an adverse impact on the same going forward, it added.

According to the agency, the agency may be downgraded to negative to some extent by the balance sheet weakness experienced by the Group on such exposures and the likely capital raise, if any of the 1,400 cr (in tranches, subject to the receipt of approvals (negative announcements) announced by L&I, would help the overall leverage and provide some cushion to absorb losses, if any, on the lending book.
